

Akers Packaging Service is currently seeking suitable candidates to fill professional sales representative positions for various manufacturing locations. As one of the leading independent manufacturers of corrugated products in the Midwest, Akers Packaging has locations in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and West Virginia. Operations include two corrugator plants, seven sheet plants, and a retail/online distribution center.

Akers Packaging manufactures and distributes Corrugated Packaging, specializing in two color, brown boxes. Impeccable service is Akers Packaging's niche, shipping to most customers within two to three days of receiving orders. Short run, fast turnaround is a key strategy that makes Akers Packaging the company it is today.

Akers Packaging associates have been equipped with the latest, state-of-the-art planning and manufacturing equipment to best fulfill customers' needs. At Akers Packaging, Customer Service is second to none.

The Sales Representative is the agent for the outside direct sales of the company's products and services, and is responsible for developing sales leads, conducting needs analysis, making formal presentations, and managing accounts.

Prior sales experience is not a pre-requisite for employment, however, a desire to meet and interact with new people from different industries is required. We are interested in candidates that possess a better than average intelligence, an extremely high energy level, and a natural sociability that draws others to them.

Each new employee will receive a starting base salary. Once promoted to Sales Representative, the employee will earn an increase in salary, and will be eligible for an additional monthly commission on all sales resulting from any new business opened. This incentive is on-going for all new and repetitive sales of new business, and there is no limit to earning potential.

Akers Packaging offers a very competitive employee benefit package including medical and dental insurance, a 401K-retirement program, and life insurance.

If you are considering a career in sales and marketing, then you should consider Akers Packaging as your opportunity to excel in a very competitive industry.
